To Reach the Goal Via the Society

It is not possible to advance without the importance of the goal. What will give me this importance?

It is not possible to make any advancement in desire, in thought, or in action without the importance of the goal. This is what gives the strength. From the beginning we give a certain importance to the desire to receive and each time need to attain greater importance according to the goal, towards the Creator, and this is possible to attain only through the environment. I constantly need to check who is the most important, me or the Creator? I need to constantly check and turn to the society in order to increase the importance of the Creator, the attribute of bestowal, as opposed to the attribute of reception.

If I work correctly, the environment will constantly supply the fuel for me, but I need always to check who is most important, me or the Creator. From within this, I relate to everything in life, i.e., family, children, work, friends. This is called that I direct myself in the correct way to reach the goal via the society.
