A New Thought for the Nation

We need to cause people to think new thoughts, thoughts about mutual Arvut (mutual guarantee).

Our conversations with people, within the framework of the protest, must bring people to the decision that without a general connection of the nation, which is called “mutual Arvut,” there won’t be success in anything. We need to cause them to feel that from now on, all of us are one family, i.e., as one man in one heart. They need to leave the round table with new thoughts, where each one thinks about the problems of the other and not about his own problems, as if each one was the representative of the whole nation.
